

Media Release

October 20, 2023

For immediate release

Gallagher Security named Security Equipment Manufacturer/Distributor for third consecutive year at 2023 ASIAL Awards

Australia – The awards keep coming for Gallagher Security, taking out the Australian Security Equipment Manufacturer/Distributor award for the third consecutive year at the 2023 Australian Security Industry Awards (ASIAL) event held last night.

As a global technology leader, Gallagher continues to demonstrate their commitment to innovation, addressing market needs and building relationships with stakeholders to ensure their continued customer-centric approach to manufacturing.

Protecting what matters most within the highest levels of national and local government, military, commercial, industrial, healthcare, transportation, academic organisations, and small businesses remains Gallagher’s focus, with their security solutions used in more than 138 countries.

With complete oversight of the manufacturing and distribution process – a distinct competitive advantage in an era of global supply chain challenges – Gallagher has an uninterrupted supply of high-quality products, including the groundbreaking Controller 7000 Single Door (C7000 SD) that was launched earlier this year. This innovative product showcases the company’s commitment to designing hardware that offers an unparalleled level of security.

Gallagher Security’s Executive Vice President for Asia Pacific and India, Middle East and Africa, Craig Schutte says: “This award recognises Gallagher’s continuing commitment to developing innovative security solutions that exceed the demands of our Channel Partners and End Users. We remain focused on designing cutting-edge solutions, upholding the highest standards of cybersecurity, nurturing strong relationships, and embracing a customer-centric philosophy. We are so proud to have won this award for the third year in a row and we’d like to thank ASIAL for this prestigious recognition.”

Held at Melbourne’s Park Hyatt on the 19 October, organised by the Australian Security Industry Association (ASIAL), the awards recognise exceptional individuals and organisations who have demonstrated excellence and innovation within the security industry.

Photo caption: Dean Matheson, Senior Technical Account Manager for Australia collecting the award, and Ashley Gardiner and Dean Matheson from Gallagher Security side by side. Click here to download images.

- Ends -

Lisa Laity Communications Partner Email: lisa.laity@gallagher.com	Tessa Williams Marketing Manager - Australia Email: tessa.williams@gallagher.com Phone: +61 456 923 970
--	---

About Gallagher:

A global technology leader in integrated access control, intruder alarms management, and perimeter protection, Gallagher's security solutions protect what matters most within the highest levels of national and local government, military, commercial, industrial, healthcare, transportation, academic organisations, and small businesses in more than 138 countries. Visit security.gallagher.com for more information.

About the 2023 Australian Security Industry Awards

Organised by ASIAL, the 27th annual Australian Security Industry Awards for Excellence were joined by the 8th annual Outstanding Security Performance Awards (the OSPAs) and 12th annual Australian Security Medals Awards. The combining of the three industry awards programs under a single event brought the industry together to celebrate excellence and achievement in our industry.